THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

The tail wags the dog. A small proportion of the 9,000,000 members of organize labor, jeopardizing the clothing, housing, food and travel facilities of some 135,000,000 people. Veterans coming home from war, expecting to find work, housing, and supplies, for living, comfortable and happy lives, are finding none of these things, because, labor bosses are able under New Deal laws to disrupt the national economy.

Small businesses groan under the burden of federal restrictions. Large businesses are are halted in efforts to supply war starved peoples at home and abroad with commodities they need, some of them desperately. Farmers are threatened with ruin by tie-up of the state's canning facilities after growing great crops of fruits and vegetables.

As we have pointed out before the answer is to turn out of office our unfaithful and incompetent servants; to put into office men determined to serve the people. This means revamping Congress. If we can unseat those representative in the House who have failed to curb the bureaucracy, even though so well entrenhed it defies the present Congress, and replace them with men of character and backbone we may yet overthrow the radicals in the hundreds of bureaus which now constantly harrass and mulct us.

We need as never before a business government, and we submit that a president who failed to make good as a haberdasher has well proven he is not the man or the job. We need a Congress which will take our bureaucracy in hand and reduce it to subservience to the people's needs. While the president some time since was given the authority to reorganize the hundreds bureaus and agencies with industriously elbow each other and stomp on each other's toes in Washington D. C., nothing, so far as we can see from this distance, has come of it.

The president is still the city politician who rose to his present eminence by politicking and hopes to retain his post by the same means. It will take a good business head to streamline the hodgepodge of brawling bureaus, agencies, commissions, authorities and administrations, which now constitute a national nightmare of disorder and confusion.

We hope that those members of the California congressional delegation who hove helped to sell their state, body, boots and breeches to labor gangsters, will be overwhelmingly defeated this fall at the polls. If California voters are not now fed up with their sickening pandering to labor despots, we see no hope in the future.

California has a chance this year to repudiate all those in Congress who have betrayed their trust by pampering a communistic group of labor czars who are doing their utmost to wreck state and national economy in order that they may seize power. This process is going on throughout the nation and our congressmen are cowed and fearful. It is not higher wages the labor bosses want, so much as it is to seize the reins of power and inaugurate a government for, by and of the bums.

The way to cure this situation is elect to Congress a few men of principle with stout hearts and a determination to make labor unions and labor members just as responsible as other citizens and all corporations are, under the law. If labor unions injure persons and property, then they should actually, as well as theoretically, be made responsible, and forced to pay cash compensation.

Rev. Gabrielli's Mother Succumbs

Rev. Virgil Gabrielli of St. Canice Catholic Church was called to Ferndale, Humbolt County Friday by the sudden death of his mother, Mrs. Paul Gabrielli.

Surviving Mrs. Gabrielli is her husband Paul and another son Louis Gabrielli who lives in Ferndale.

GAME ANIMALS COMMITTEE MEETS

The game animals committee of the Associated Sportsmen of California met yesterday at Stockton Rod and Gun club at 1p. m. Chairman N. M. Hughes presiding.

Discussion was on the following:

Recommendations for the setting of seasons and bak limits on deer to submit to the Fish and Game Commission for consideration at its June session.

Possible change of district boundaries.

Winter conditions of the deer herds.

Disease and predatory animals control.

Warden patrol.

Trapping and transplanting progress of overcrowded areas to depleted areas.

Whether monies taken in on deer tags and antelope permits should be used solely on those animals.

Any particularly pressing problems brought up on antelope, bear, elk, sheep and goats.

BANK TO AID VETERANS WHO SEEK HOMES

Following the recent U. S. government order directing building materials into channels for the construction of homes for veterans, Bank of America has announced a statewide program to retrain over 1000 members of its staff as specialists in veterans loans under the newly liberalized GI Bill.

In addition, each of the bank's branches is to have a veteran's counsellor to whom veterans of World War II may turn for information on loans and other matters of interest to them.

Declaring that "the veteran is getting a break in housing at last," Bank of America officers point out that the recent amendments to the GI Bill "took out the hocus pocus, eliminated the red tape and streamlined the procedure."

It was further stated that under the new regulations the Bank of America is prepared to make loans to veterans on homes costing up to $10,000 without a down payment, provided the veteran complies with the requirement of sufficient income to take care of the payments and appraisal shows that the property is priced in line with present day cost factors.

Emergency Food Problem Will Be Discussed Tonight

A meeting to arrange an emergency food conservation program for the county will take place this evening in the offices of the Nevada Irrigation District in Grass Valley under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture Council at 7:30 o'clock.

Lee Drew of the Production and Marketing Administration in Berkeley and William Brooks Nevada County Farm Advisor will discuss methods of saving food and production of additional food through home gardens.

CHIMNEY FIRE

The fire department was called out Friday morning to douse a chimney fire at the home of Mrs. Isabel Hefelfinger on B Street. Damage was nominal.

NEVADA CITY 75 YEARS AGO

Thank You! The Virginia City Enterprise in noticing the commencement of the twenty second volume of the Transcript says: The Nevada Transcript one of the best of California's country journals completes the twenty first volume with its issue of last Sunday. Always manly an truthful, it is an honor to journalism.

A grand ball will be given at Temperance Hall on the evening of St. Patrick's Day March 17th. Excellent music will be on hand and every effort will be made by the managers having charge to make the party a pleasant one for all who attend.

The supper will be excellent and as the festival is intended for a good object it should be largely attended.

Wild Pigeons: We learn that wild pigeons are getting to be very plentiful near the line of the railroad below Colfax and that they are also numerous along the banks of Bear River.

Sewing Society: The ladies of the Episcopal Sewing Society will meet at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Holmes on Boulder Street this Friday evening.

Sale: Owing to extraordinary dull times A. Goldsmith, corner of Broad and Pine, will offer a sale of goods at wholesale prices. Call and get a chance at them before it is too late. 10 yards print for one dollar. Allendale sheeting 35c a yard. 4-ply 4 brown sheeting muslin 12 1-2 cents a yard. Dress goods, corsets, trimmings—all at extremely low prices.

There are now fifteen prisoners in the county jail—seven of the number belonging to the "heathen Chinee" family.

Attention Native Sons: The officers and members of Hydraulic Parlor No. 56 NSGW are requested to meet at their hall on Sunday, Jan. 5th at one o'clock p. m. for the purpose of attending the funeral of their late brother H. Pecarty, which will take place from the family residence at 2 p. m. By order, J. C. Nilon Pres. E. J. Morgan, Sec'y.

Personal Pointers: J. F. Landsburg came over from Relief Hill today. John German Jr. and Ed German came over from North San Juan yesterday. J. C. Tyrell of Grass Valley has gone to Truckee to assist in the publication of the Republican during the ice carnival.

John Eddy who has been very near death's door as able to come down town yesterday.

There will be preaching both morning and evening by the pastor, Rev. J. Sims. Subject of discourse in the evening, "Something to Keep Throughout '96." Sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered at the close of the morning service.

The Christian Endeavor will meet at the usual hour led by Mrs. W. W. Waggoner. Subject: Prayer—how to use and enjoy it. All are cordially invited.

Grass Valley Tidings: That report of the Leap Year ball in Thursday's Transcripit was a well conceived and neath written article. The description of costumes worn by the male attendants was decidedly rich. Bro. Brown gave the reporter a day off. The efforts of a society reporter are not always in vain.

Hon. J. M. Walling and A. D. Mason left on the noon train for San Francisco yesterday.

Mrs. B. F. Preston returned to Sacramento yesterday after spending the holidays in this city with the M. L. Marsh family.

Births: At Columbia Hill January 3, 1896 to the wife of M. Calanan a

The relatives of W. A. Hawley and wife and of John Angave and James Julifie have received word that the above persons who left Grass Valley for South Africa three months ago arrived there safely. The gentlemen are employed at a mine of which George Starr formerly of Grass Valley is superintendent.

It is said the bustle is coming into favor again—this is a move backward.

S. F. CHAMBER IN DRIVE FOR TRADE

Compilation of a world trade index of San Francisco bay area exporters, importers and manufacturers was announced by the San Francisco chamber of commerce.

The index of world trade information spearheads a program planned by the chamber's world trade department to increase the flow of world trade through the port of San Francisco by enlarging the department's facilities to assist manufacturers to expand their foreign markets and to encourage the establishment of foreign connections in this area.

Main purpose of the index will be for use in lists and directories to be distrbiuted to businessmen in all markets of the world but it will also be employed in assisting visiting businessmen from abroad to make connections in this area for the purchase of goods.

Under the direction of Alvin C. by the chamber's world trade department index forms are now being sent to industries and importing and exporting firms throughout the bay area for the purpose of collecting information for the classification of each business as to type, kind of commodities produced and exported, type of imports desired and foreign countries in which they are engaged in foreign business.

Leland Smith accompanied by Mrs. Smith, has gone to O'Neal near Madera, where for a short time he will assist in the state division of forestry experimental station there.

DO GOVERNMENT SUBSIDIES SAP U. S. STRENGTH?

By Ralph H. Taylor

In the decade preceding the rude awakening of 1929—in which nearly everybody "knew" there would never be another world war, and perpetual prosperity was taken for granted—is tutly termed the Era of Wonderful Nonsense what should we call the present era?

It would be hard to refute a pessimist who would call this aimless reconversion period the Era of Utter Confusion and Lost Faith.

The confusion is too great, and too damaging, to be accounted for by the circumstance that the country does have a difficult task in converting to a peace time economy. Ground gained in one direction is offset by a retreat in another direction. The classic description of the man who leaped on his horse "and galloped off in all directions" applies to Uncle Sam in the national post war bewilderment.

The agricultural scene is as confusing as any in post war America. President Truman calls upon the farming industry to lead the attack on world famine by prodigious production and every farmer will be glad to do his utmost. Herbert Hoover giving his food administration experience to the president's program calls upon the nation to avoid waste of food—and surely every housewife will heed him. Those are wholesome humanitarian steps.

But also we read that farm equipment output has been affected so extensively by strikes that the resulting shortages of tractors and implements may cut 1946 agricultural production. The effect of the steel strike alone will be felt for a long time. And at one time more than 36,000 workers in the farm equipment industry had stopped operation of plants which normally manufacture 40 per cent of all farm equipment.

There is concrete illustration of our besetting national sin. We struggle and labor and sacrifice toward a good end—and at the same time hamstring ourselves through sheer stupidity. At one extreme the housewife carefully conserve precious food — at the other extreme the farmer is hampered in production.

That doesn't add up. It doesn't make sense. What would make sense would be the spurring of production by every means while the housewife fights waste. Then two factors of effort would be combined constructively—instead of the one cancelling out the other.

Such confusion, such cancelling out of progress by retreat, is discouragingly evident in all fields of American endeavor.

What is behind all this—fundamentally? It is difficult to escape the conclusion that many millions of Americans have lost faith in themselves. They gang up in groups, large and small each battling for its own selfish interests, each regardless of the interest of the nation as a whole.

In the first flush of the depression President Roosevelt said, "we have nothing to fear but fear itself." Temporarily, for vast numbers of jobless and frigtened people, he assuaged fear. Some of his New Deal reforms many believe were timely and beneficial — but in the aggregate they had the ill effect upon the people of substituting dependence upon government for their fears. In losing fear too many people lost their sturdy, old time American sense of self reliance and independence.

Today's labor leaders lack the self reliance to go ahead and produce—and rely upon union strength (now at its historic peak) to gain the nation's workers a fair share of produced wealth. They fight for wage boosts and guarantees before prouction is even under way. AFL and CIO unions fight each other as hatefully as they fight management—to the destructive disregard of the national welfare and (which is the same thing, their own final welfare.

Discouraged businessmen submit—submit protestingly but still submit—to governmental overseership and domination that has grown outrageously since the New Deal's birth. It is as if a form of inferiority complex had swept over the American people like a plague.

It is a qlague of grab yours and run, with group against group each selfish because it is fearful—and fearful because it has lost the vision of an America that united and confident can provide the basic initiative and incentive so necessary to full opportunity in a world of free men.

Yet it is devoutly to be hoped that the majority have learned from experience that no one man, however dominant his personality may be nor any organization of men in government an permanently lift economic fear from a great nation. One hundred and forty million Americans must conquer that fear through constructive and confident thinking—if it is to be conquered in our time. The golden rule—do unto others as you would have them od to you—is still basic in successful human relationships.

HISTORICAL SOC. EXHIBIT DRAWS MUCH INTEREST

The Nevada County Historical Society is greatly appreciative of the artistic work of Mrs. John Foley formerly of Nevada City but now residing in Orland.

Mrs. Foley arranged the diorama depicting Indian camp life in Bear Valley which is on display in the court house. Her painting of the mountains surrounding Bear Valley was done from memory and the Indian figures were molded in clay, then painted.

The scene shows a group of Indian hunters returning to camp with their game, a group of women tending the fire, while another group grinds the famous acorn flour on a nearby boulder.

The large figures exhibiting the clothes the Indians wore before the coming of the white man and the fire maker were also done by Mrs. John Foley.

The opening of the museum was held on the evening of April 1. after an enjoyable dinner held in the Parish Hall of Trinity Episcopal Church by a committee of ladies under the direction of Mrs. Benjamin Hall.

Community singing was led by Lloyd Geist, principal of the Nevada City Elementary School which was followed by a short business meeting by the president, Elmer Stevens and an interesting talk on source information by Edmund G. Kinyon.

After visiting the court house the group continued to the elementary school auditorium where an interesting relic display was arranged. Among the relics were costumes from the collection of Mrs. Marlyne Delano and pictures, a gold rocker and a facsimile of the gold bar from the last clean up of the Malakoff Mine at North Bloomfield, presented by Philip Bradley of Grass Valley.

TREE PLANTING SERVICE SUNDAY FOR WAR DEAD

In compliance with a request made by Banner Mountain Post of Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mayor Ben Hall will shortly issue a proclamation.

He will ask all citizens to maintain silence for 5 minutes, beginning at 2 p. m. in memory of the men who perished in battle during the war. During the hour of closing, 2 to 3 p. m. the fire bell will toll for Nevada City's war dead.

Eighteen trees will be planted around Seaman's Lodge in Pioneers Park during the hour in memory of the 18 Nevada City men who gave their lives.

Funeral Tomorrow For Mrs. Mary Ann Gillen

Funeral services will be held in St. Canice Catholic Church tomorrow at 10 a. m. under direction of Holmes Funeral Home for Mrs. Mary Ann Gillen, who died Thursday in a local hospital. Interment will be in Seattle, Washington.

Mrs. Gillen was a native of New Jersey, aged 72 years. She had resided in Nevada City for 40 years. She leaves no immediate relatives. She had been in ill health for several years and was confined much of the time to her home on Pine Street.

American Red Cross Aids Wounded and Able-bodied

Not long ago to a Red Cross field director with an outfit on maneuvers flashed a message that the mother of a man in his unit was critically ill, and the man was needed at home immediately.

With this message from the soldier's Red Cross chapter verifying the illness, the field director called on the commanding officer who arranged an emergency furlough. While a courier sped up the line to fetch the soldier, the Red Cross man was busy arranging transportation.

Within a few hours the boy was at the Red Cross field office where furlough papers and a ticket awaited him. The field director drove him to the airport, and the boy arrived home in time—not to see his mother die, but to save her life with a blood transfusion.

Today, six months after V-J Day, some 17,000 Red Cross workers are still with the GIs at home and abroad. Hundreds of clubs and rest homes overseas are in operation where men meet on leave, get home-cooked food, and that prime American favorite—doughnuts and coffee. Music and entertainment, books, magazines, and home-town newspapers, lounge and writing rooms—all are popular. For men staying overnight there are comfortable beds, clean sheets, and hot showers.

More important than Red Cross services to the able-bodied are those for the wounded and ill. In army and navy hospitals the country over, professional and volunteer Red Cross workers serve in many ways.

To the hospitalized a financial or family problem may prey upon the mind and dull the will to recovery. Under guidance of Red Cross medical social workers many a problem is dissolved, and difficult obstacles are smoothed, while programs directed by trained recreation workers help patients forget their troubles. Red Cross volunteers supplement these workers with every conceivable service.

For example, there was the blinded soldier whose face was horribly scarred, who was expecting a visit from his wife and five-year-old daughter. It would be the first meeting in two years, he told the Red Cross girl who was teaching him rummy with Braille cards.

"My little girl knows I'm blind and she's planning how she'll do things for me," he said.

But what she did not know, what had been kept from him so that it might not retard his readjustment, was the way he was scarred and disfigured.

The Red Cross girl caught her breath. "That's fine," she said. "I'll meet them at the train."

Her heart sank upon seeing the tiny girl. It would be a job to prepare her for the shock, to make sure she did not let her father suspect there was anything wrong.

Gently she told the child about her daddy's face, how it would get better, how much he loved her, and that she mustn't be afraid. Then, with a prayer in her heart, she led mother and child to the blinded soldier.

The crucial moment had come. Now, upon the actions of a little girl, the future of this family would depend. For a moment the tot stood in the doorway, looking at her father across the room. Then, without hesitation, came the patter of little feet, and she threw her arms around her father's neck. "Daddy," she cried, "Daddy, it's me—we're so glad to have you back!"

A simple service, yes. But it determined the happiness of three people. Without the understanding heart, and the many who daily give of their minds and souls, the adjustment of thousands of servicemen might be seriously retarded.

The American Red Cross needs $100,000,000 to carry on during the next fiscal year. That sum is small when stacked against the heartaches stilled, suffering eased, misery relieved, new hope infused—day in, day out—because of Red Cross ministrations.

Because farm families have a big stake in the Red Cross they consistently support the organization. The Red Cross is confident that families in agricultural areas, the backbone of the nation, will generously support the 1946 Fund Campaign.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

An Allegory

In the midst of a forest there was a shrewd mouse-trap manufacturer who turned out a dependable item. His was a home industry. Son Joe worked hard for long hours making steel springs by hand. Mother kept the books and wrote the letters. Dad did the assembly work and finishing. There were no sales problems. Customers already had beaten a path to his door—and formed a waiting line.

But there was beefing in the line. Deliveries were slow and service was bad. Finally one day, in a stack of third-class mail, Mom found an advertisement for spring-winding machines. It was very timely because Joe's work-bench was the bottle-neck. Nobody else could make springs and he was always rushed to keep up with Dad. So Dad bought Joe a spring-winding machine.

Industrial Unrest

Turning out a better trap than ever, and a lot more per day, business was fine. Prosperity came. Dad was flush, declared Saturday afternoons off, and raised pay all the way around. About the time the general good feeling was at its height, Joe married a cute little communistic viewpoint. Then it was that the rodent extermination industry started to undergo complete reorganization.

The little c.v. convinced Joe that he ought to have a half interest in the business, and there wasn't much Dad could do about it. After the 50-50 partnership was formed, the c.v. started telling Mom off right regularly, making quips about faked accounts, and gifts from buyers, to shock the F.T.C. Mom had to keep books with the c.v. looking over her shoulder, eating an apple.

Industrial Strife

At length the junior partner made bold to demand a spot on the payroll for the c.v., at Mom's pay, with authority to watch Mom and keep her honest. That was the day the spring - winding machine broke down. Repairing it seemed quite useless to Dad, what with a shop full of headaches, padded payrolls, no profits, and all departments working at cross purposes. He'd just quit!

Retiring from active duty (but retaining an interest) Dad pulled out and took Mom on a fishing trip. New people had to be hired at top scale to operate the finishing department and run the office. Joe missed a few payments on the new spring-winding machine he'd bought on credit after junking the old one. Now nobody but little c.v. could think up a way out of the dilemma.

Such a Brilliance

Here was the solution c.v. worked out: Raise wages again, all along the line, and boost the price of traps. Even Joe favored it, and he was general manager now. It was done. The very next buyer showed an unpleasant reaction. Word drifted back along the line of buyers which melted down to a third of its average length. Joe ran after the customers but didn't catch many.

$400,000,000 construction program under way on the Pacific Coast
During the next five years, a four hundred million dollar construction program is planned to improve and expand telephone service on the Pacific Coast.
This program is already under way and is going ahead steadily.
In 1946 alone, more than 70 building projects, installation of eight billion feet of wire in exchange cable and construction of 200,000 miles of toll and long distance circuits are expected to be completed. Work will be started on the Western part of a nation-wide coaxial cable network for long distance and television transmission, and in the next few years many new services and improvements will be introduced.
For it is our purpose to grow with the West and to help the West grow—to provide an ever-widening, ever-improving telephone service.

POSTAL EMPLOYES ELIGIBLE FOR SOME PUBLIC OFFICES

Nevada City, California
April 8, 1946

Editor of Nugget.
Nevada City.

In order that the public may fully understand the rulings of civil service concerning federal employees entering their names for public office, I am submitting the following decision from Mr. Henry T. Kranz, regional director of the Twelfth United States civil service commission in San Francisco. This decision is in reply to an inquiry from Mr. Penrose before permitting his name to appear on the board of education ballot. I quote:

"The general restrictions relative to federal officers and employees accepting appointive or elective offices of a political nature do not prohibit federal officers and employees from holding certain positions, these being exempted and among such exempted positions are positions and services on boards of education. school committees, public libraries, religious or eleemosynary institutions, incorporated or established or sustained by state or municipal authorities. Thus your understanding that a postal clerk may be a candidate for a board of education position, is correct provided the office involved is not filled by an election involving candidates who, either directly or indirectly represent a political party."

May I add that any young man who is willing to serve the public with enthusiasm and without remuneration has my profound respect and support and may I also add that I have no respect for any person who writes to me as post master, in protest to an issue and does not have honor enough to sign his or her name.

Respectfully yours,

BETTY MARTIN WEST,
Postmaster.
Nevada City, Calif.

ROTARIANS TO MEET APRIL 21 IN SACRAMENTO

Rotarians are planning to take an active part in the annual conference of District 105, including all clubs in Northern California and Nevada, which will be held in Sacramento for three days opening Easter Sunday, April 21.

Word from Sacramento to local Rotarians indicates the largest attendance in several years, owing to the removal of restrictions on travel imposed by the war.

Various sports events, including a golf tournament and special attractions for the visiting wives of Rotarians are included in the program, as well as the more serious convention business, including the election of a new district governor in succession to J. R. Shannon of Redding.

Registration will start Sunday, April 21 at the Hotel Senator with a past president's dinner Sunday evening. A full schedule of activties has been provided for Monday and Tuesday, with a dinner dance Monday evening and the governor's dinner Tuesday evening.

Local members planning to attend the conference are urged to send in their room reservations through their local "on to Sacramento" chairman immediately in order that suitable hotel accommodations may be provided for them.

HALEY DECLARES GOL DNO FACTOR OF INFLATION

The Nevada City Rotary Club heard Charles Scott Haley, consulting engineer and geologist at their luncheon meeting declared that gold was not an inflationary agent but that the price of gold almost invariably rises following an inflation.

Haley, author of Gold Placers in California, described other metals and the possibility of mining them in California. Among these were coal which he said was not good for fuel but could be utilized for making creosote.

Sulphur, lime, copper, zinc, bauxite, asbestos and clay were some of the minerals which Haley thought would some day come into their own in California.

Regarding the possibility of an advance in the price of gold, Haley was of the opinion that it depended upon action by Russia and Great Britain which together produce 80 per cent of the world's gold. He noted that while the United States closed gold mines during the war, Britain gave gold mining companies war priorities in machinery and supplies.

TRUCKEE RAINFALL

H. I. Snider ranger at the Truckee station yesterday reported that rainfall for the season totaled 31.76 inches and snow depth at the ranger headquarters is now 38 inches.

Snider states the crew engaged in telephone line maintenance over the Martis Ridge between Truckee and Lake Tahoe found an average depth of six to eight feet on the high portions of the trail.

Oakland Man Found Dead In Hotel Room

F. H. Baldwin of Oakland was found dead in his room at the Bret Harte Inn Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock by hotel employes.

Coroner Alvah Hooper who investigated, stated that death was probably due to a heart attack. Baldwin was seated at a typewriter desk when the end came. Hooper states he believes the man was an insurance investigator or adjustor. An Oakland undertaking firm is expected to take charge of the remains which yesterday were at the Hooper and Weaver Mortuary.

Fire Dept. Raises Reward Of $150 For Truck Thief

The three companies of the Grass Valley Fire Department announced yesterday that they have raised $150 as a reward for information leading to the arrest of the thief who stole the department's squad truck two weeks ago and after a wild ride out South Auburn Street, wrecked it against the corner of a service station.

The city council offered a reward of $50 so the total now for information is $200. Damage done to the truck was estimated at $400.

THIS country is short of industrial fats, mighty short.

The supply is so low that the government must decide how much fat can be released to make soap; how much for other peacetime goods. The shortage would be even worse without the wonderful help American housewives are giving by turning in used fats.

Keep saving to tide us over this emergency. It will help YOU get more soaps and other products you want so much.
